TERRIFYING TALES TOLD OF STRIKE ON DESERT

Men Collapse, Children In Convulsions As Trainmen Desert Passengers

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—Following reports that service employes on the coast line division of the Santa Fe had voted to strike at 10 o'clock tomorrow night, Attorney General Daugherty this afternoon wired district attorneys in California, Arizona and New Mexico to take immediate grand jury action against the strikers if there was any evidence of a conspiracy to interrupt interstate commerce.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Thrilling stories of adventure, each rivalling all the others in interest, were being told today by the men and women tourists following their arrival here after being marooned three days and nights on the sweltering desert at Needles, when the Santa Fe train on which they were passengers was halted because of the railroad tie-up.

The passengers, many of them women with little babies, aged grandmothers and fretful children presented a pitiful sight when they stepped off the train here and into the arms of waiting relatives and friends, and told their tales of experiences in the desert of heat when the thermometer hovered around 120 degrees.

Collapses Twice
J. M. Morris of Los Angeles arrived here on a stretcher after having collapsed twice from the heat and delayed the train at Barstow an hour and a half while a physician gave him first aid treatment. At San Bernardino a trained nurse was secured and he arrived in Los Angeles under the care of the nurse and a doctor.

The life of little Jane Dunn, 1-year-old daughter of Mrs. Susan Dunn, who went into convulsions from the heat was saved only by the untiring efforts of her mother and the good women of Needles, according to the mother.

Condemns Trainmen
Bitter condemnation of the situation was expressed by S. W. Porter, San Francisco attorney, who was on the stalled train at Ashfork, Ariz. He said a committee consisting of N. A. McDonald, Kansas City business man; G. B. Foster of Omaha and Ralph (Continued on Page 9)

Rings Concealed In Hair Saved From Automobile Bandits

Rings concealed in Mrs. P. A. Pollock's hair were not discovered last night by automobile bandits who jumped on the running board of their Overland country club car as she and her husband were returning to their home at 110 South Pacific avenue from the beach.

The episode occurred at the bottom of the Los Feliz hill. Their car had been followed for some distance but they thought it was friends who were returning home in another car.

Mr. Pollock was ordered to drive on slowly while the car was searched. Mrs. Pollock's wrist watch, which she had hidden at the side of the seat a few minutes before, was not found.

It is believed that the highwaymen were after diamond rings as they refused a quantity of small change, and spared Mrs. Pollock's pocketbook. The loot consisted of a $5 bill and several smaller bills making about $8 altogether.

LEGION POSTPONES PICNIC

Clarence Edwards, chairman of the picnic committee of the local post of the American Legion, has announced that the annual picnic of the ex-service men, which had been previously arranged to take place on August 27, has been indefinitely postponed. The reason given is on account of the date coming too close to the Glendale Community picnic on Wednesday of this week.

Hot Thief Steals An Electric Fan In C. of C. Building

Here is a hot story about a hot thief.
Saturday was warm, no getting around that, and when Rene Olin, public accountant in Room 1, Chamber of Commerce building, had occasion to visit his office yesterday he found that—
Some nifty gentleman had used the window court as a means of entree, jabbed a hole in the screen, unlocked the window, made a thorough search of both Mr. Olin's office and those of the Merchants' Credit association adjoining and carried off the electric fan which keeps the accountant's figures cool.
The window court is accessible from the roof of the building or through a window in the Chamber of Commerce banquet hall, it is stated.

PASTOR'S ADDRESS THRILLS CLASS OF NURSES

Speaker Reveals Meaning of Slogan 'Looking Beyond' to Graduates

"Looking Beyond,"—the motto of the 1922 class of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Nurses' Training school—was taken by Pastor J. L. McElhane, president of the Pacific Union Conference, as the subject for the baccalaureate address he delivered Saturday morning to class members, relatives and friends at the Seventh-Day Adventist church.

By 11 o'clock, the hour set for the service, the church auditorium was crowded to capacity. Adjoining smaller rooms were thrown open and filled, but many persons unable to find seats stood during the service.

Processional Impressive
Following the offertory, with violin solo by Owen Troy, the impressive processional of graduates took place, the members of the class, wearing their undergraduate uniforms, filed into the auditorium and took their places in a reserved section, while Mendelssohn's inspiring "Processional" was played by A. Belle Johnson, pianist, and Mrs. Charles A. Swartsfager, organist.

Preceding Pastor McElhane's address, the choir, directed by C. H. Jones sang "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," and a mixed quartet rendered beautifully "In Heavenly Love Abiding," with choir accompaniment. Members of the quartet were Nellie Martin Ochs, Retta King Nelson, Carl M. Christy and E. J. Smith.

Pastor E. L. Neff gave the invocation of the morning.

Tells of Ideals.
In opening his address Pastor McElhane read from Second Corinthians, chapter four, verses seventeen and eighteen, saying "In reading this passage I greet the class of 1922 and congratulate them on their study, labors and toils of the past three years and congratulate them on the choice of their fine motto, 'Looking Beyond,' the sentiment of which is expressed in the scripture I have just read.

"First let me ask, is your motto a meaningless phrase? You stand today facing the future. What do you see? What are you looking at? Of course every one (Continued on Page 10)

Mrs. Anderson and Sisters Entertain at Family Reunion

Mrs. Allie Anderson, superintendent of the Golden West Sanitarium at 1125 East California street, and sisters, Misses Katherine and Cymbel Taylor of 715 South Louise street, entertained with a family reunion yesterday in the form of a 1:30 uncheon in the banquet room at the Broadway Inn. There was present their father, Walter E. Taylor of Fort Worth, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Taylor of Cisco, Tex., Mrs. John Snider of Amarillo, Mrs. J. M. Jones of College Station, Tex., and W. E. Taylor's five grandchildren, Willie Reese Taylor, daughter of V. H. Taylor; Irene, John Taylor and Mrs. H. G. Westphal and Dr. and Mrs. William Johnson have honored with informal affairs, the junior nurses entertained them, and on Thursday night of this week Dr. Lydia Parnale and Mrs. C. R. LaGourge are to have them as guests at Mrs. LaGourge's home.

INVESTS HIS MONEY
Glendale is certainly attracting the attention of state officials according to City Manager W. H. Reeves. This morning he called attention to the fact that M. D. Darlington, member of the state highway commission, has invested in local real estate. Mr. Reeves considers this information significant because Mr. Darlington, who lives at 416 Grand View avenue, Los Angeles, is acquainted with nearly all of the communities in Southern California.

Ornamental Street Lamp and Car Hurt

An ornamental light post belonging to "Dad" Glendale" was smashed about 4:30 yesterday afternoon by a car occupied by John A. Burbaw, 1253 North Lake avenue, Pasadena.

"I was driving north on Brand boulevard about 15 miles per hour," stated Mr. Burbaw. "A green Ford speedster cut from Acacia street and stopped in the middle of Brand boulevard. It was impossible to pass to the left as there was another car passing my car. Therefore, in order to avoid smashing the green car, I turned to the curb and broke down a city light post. The J. and B. Service Station estimates that the damage to my car was about $50."

ROUGH ROAD COSTLY
A strenuous attempt is being made by the local city administration to have the Los Angeles City Council have Glendale boulevard repaired according to City Manager W. H. Reeves. He estimates that every motorist who passes over the Edendale hill should figure at least a dollar a trip for deterioration to his car.

Inset picture of Elsie Lord, another member of the graduating class, who was out of the city.

SEVEN STATES AND CANADA IN CLASS

Graduating Nurses Gathered From Distant Points by Sanitarium

The graduation tomorrow evening of the 1922 class of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Training School for Nurses is of more than local import may be seen by a glance at the class record, which shows that the fifteen members represent seven states and Canada. It is not unusual in a large class to find wide representation, but that a class of fifteen should be gathered together from such distant parts is interesting.

Homes of the class members are given as: Ethel May Anderson, White Water, Manitoba, Canada; Lela Douglas Barnhart, Loomis, Wash.; Beatrice Hazel E. Christian, Chinook, Mont.; Leona Belle Fisher, San Fernando; Judith Louella Herling, Sawtelle; Pearl Marjorie Hodge, San Fernando; Elsie May Lord, South Lancaster, Mass.; James Elwood Moore, Tracy; Mrs. Lutie Eleanor Marple, Los Angeles; Celena Louise Schleifer, New York City; Anna Atalia Scheffel, Armona; Daisy Vivian Reid, Minature, Neb.; Anna Anora Peters, Fresno; Marion Evelyn DeWitt, Kansas City, Kan.; Norma Holbrook Rogers, Sanger.

The graduation of the class of 1922 marks the entrance of a freshman class, twenty-five of whom have already arrived and registered and more are expected, according to Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, superintendent of nurses.

Mrs. Harris also announces the addition of two members to the class of 1923, Miss Rose Unshuh of Saskatchewan, Canada, and Mrs. Alice Kime of Orlando, Florida, who have come to take their senior work.

During their last two weeks in training the 1922 class members have been complimented by a series of social affairs. Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Westphal and Dr. and Mrs. William Johnson have honored with informal affairs, the junior nurses entertained them, and on Thursday night of this week Dr. Lydia Parnale and Mrs. C. R. LaGourge are to have them as guests at Mrs. LaGourge's home.

COUNTERFEITING OUTFIT IS SEIZED IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—What the police declared to be a complete plant for counterfeiting, was in their possession today, held as evidence against two men arrested in connection with alleged attempts to raise split one dollar bills to tens. The men are Christopher Keenan and Christopher Burnett.

$10,000 IN JEWELS AND BONDS STOLEN AT LA JOLLA

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 14.—Jewelry and bonds to the value of $10,000 were stolen from the home of Mrs. W. F. Presgrave, wealthy resident of Bird Rock, exclusive resort district near LaJolla last night, she reported to the police today. The jewels, mostly diamonds, were worth nearly $5000. The thieves were apparently frightened away, as they overlooked much valuable silver.

EARLY SETTLEMENT OF COAL STRIKE IS PREDICTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The coal strike will be settled by Wednesday and production begun on a large scale immediately, according to confidential advices reaching government officials today. "Everything looks favorable for a settlement within the next forty-eight hours between the operators and miners at the Cleveland conference," said a telegram received today by a cabinet officer.

JURY IN LABOR CONSPIRACY TRIAL GOES HOME

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The jury in the "labor conspiracy" trial of Fred "Frenchy" Mader, Daniel "Duke" McCarthy and John Miller, after forty-eight hours' deliberation, during which they were unable to come to an agreement, were dismissed by Judge Taylor today. The disagreement means new trials for all the defendants who are charged with conspiracy in connection with the murder of Police Lieutenant Terrance Lyons during the Landis wage award war.

ARTHUR GRIFFITH'S BODY LIES IN STATE AT DUBLIN

DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—While the body of Arthur Griffith, late president of the Dail, and Irish foreign secretary, was lying in state in the city hall today, being viewed by mourning thousands, military operations went on as usual in the west. The Irish provisional government has proclaimed three days of mourning, preceding the funeral on Wednesday. This funeral promises to bring out the biggest and most spectacular demonstration for the free state it has ever received here.

INVESTIGATE EGG RANCHER'S DEATH IN BLAZE

SANTA ROSA, Aug. 14.—Authorities are investigating the circumstances surrounding the burning to death of George Brunz, El Verano egg rancher, at his home early today. James Moore, a neighbor, is being held as a witness to testify at the inquest to be held this afternoon. Moore told officers that while he and his wife were gathering eggs on the Brunz ranch they noticed the house in flames. He said he ran to the house and endeavored to rescue Brunz but the latter fought him off and refused to be rescued.

AGUINALDO UNABLE TO ATTEND VETS' REUNION

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 14.—Before the twenty-fourth anniversary celebration of the occupation of Manila under the auspices of the United Spanish and foreign war veterans, General Aguinaldo officially announced with regret that he is unable to attend the veterans' convention in Los Angeles. He acknowledged his appreciation for the invitation and also paid a high tribute to American soldiers. Less than fifty veterans of a force of 10,000 investing Manila, August 13, 1898, under General Wesley Merritt, are now living in the Philippines.

SUN YAT SEN IS NOW SAFE IN SOUTHERN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Aug. 14.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, deposed president of South China, arriving here today on the liner Empress of Russia, declared that although he had left Canton he is not defeated but comes here because he will be better able to communicate with the national leaders regarding re-unification of China. "My future actions depend upon the result of a conference with Peking. My assistance is sought by Peking in bringing about re-unification and I believe we will come to a satisfactory agreement." Dr. Sun's arrival was delayed forty-eight hours by the terrific typhoon raging off the Shanghai coast, the liner being unable to make a landing in the storm. Sun plunged into a series of conferences with southern leaders immediately upon his arrival.

IMPORTANT VICTORIES CLAIMED BY IRREGULARS

BELFAST, Aug. 14.—Following the capture of the important railway city of Dundalk, irregular troops were reported this afternoon to have captured the great Irish port of Drogheda from the free state forces. Both cities are near the Ulster frontier. The irregulars raided all Dundalk banks, seizing thousands of pounds. The rail lines and bridges were destroyed to prevent pursuit. Later details showed that the irregulars made a surprise attack at 3 o'clock this morning. The barracks and police headquarters were quickly occupied and all the regular soldiers were made prisoners. The republican prisoners in the jail were liberated. The captures were followed by an intensive outbreak of bombing, during which the civilian population fled in panic. Next the railway station and the postoffice were seized and soon the whole city was in the hands of the rebels.

COMMUNITY PICNIC PROMISES ALL PLENTY FUN

Like a Three-Ring Circus, There'll Be Something Doing Every Minute

Novelty is a tame word for the big community picnic which will be staged all day next Wednesday by and for the people of Glendale under the able auspices of the Merchants' Credit Association, upon the occasion of the dedication of the park recently acquired by the city.

All the successful old-time attractions which have endeared themselves to Americans, young and old, for generations, will be revived or resurrected, according to their respective states of command and many new-fangled methods of exciting and holding the interest have been conceived, devised and planned.

Fun A-Plenty

If there has been anything omitted, from spelling bees for the aged and decrepit to climbing the greased pole or catching a well-battered live porker with bare hands and feet by the young and active, no matter how open to constructive criticism. Athletic sports ranging from checkers to baseball "for blood," fireworks from aerial bombs to cap pistols, edibles—alleged and real—from the well known and popular "hot dog" to the not-so-well-known but none-the-less popular fried chicken, field sports and pie-eating contests, real music and amateur quartets, will be staged for the amusement and pleasure, entertainment and education of the Glendale townfolk, who are expected to be present en masse.

Baseball Duel Threatened.
Four baseball games will be played; a good professional competition, and top-notch amateur exhibition and amateur no-quit so top, but wherein the players are personally popular in other fields of endeavor, and a gruesome diamond contest advertised as the "Major Butts Nine versus Major Potter Nine" are on the program. Details of the Butts-Potter baseball duel will be found in the columns of the sports page of this issue.

Of course there will be patriotic exercises and speechmaking, but the affair will be a "three-ring circus," and nobody need be bored at any time, for several varieties (Continued on Page 2)

Band 'Jinx' Night at Elks Club for Lodge Members Only

"The biggest night of the year," is the way in which John A. Roman, chairman of the house committee of the Glendale Elks' lodge, refers to the "band jinx," which is to be held at the local clubhouse tonight. Following an early business session, which is to be called at 7 o'clock, the entire evening will be turned over to the entertainment of the Bills. A crowd of six hundred Glendale and visiting members is expected to be on hand for the affair, which is to consist of boxing, wrestling, a battle royal, music, novelty vaudeville acts, etc. The proceeds from the jinx will be turned over to the lodge's band, which is to make a strong bid for honors in the state convention this year at Santa Monica. Tonight's show is for Elks only.

24 YEARS AGO TODAY

The twenty-fourth anniversary of the Battle of Manila was observed with appropriate exercises yesterday at the Soldiers' Home in Sawtelle. Capt. W. H. Reeves of 500 East Maple street, commander of the local post of United Spanish War Veterans, regretted his inability to attend. He was a spectator of the entire battle, having been stationed in a signal tower in Cavite, directly across Manila Bay. His unit was used to relay messages from the navy to the army. It was the entire "program of fireworks."

Snake Snoozing On Tower's Top Nature Faking?

Snakes are not as common as they were prior to 1919 B. P.—meaning "Before Prohibition"—and rattlesnakes are far from common discoveries upon the soil of Glendale and environs.

Rattlesnakes on watertowers, windmills and flagpoles are so rare that when H. H. Cooper of Highland avenue last Friday discovered a sizable sidewinder coiled on the top of a tower above the roof of a house he recently completed near Highland avenue, he killed the "beastie" and carefully preserved the hide as substantiating evidence.

The reptilian skin measures three feet and one inch in length and is adorned with nine distinct and noisome rattles.

The facts are incontrovertible, but don't ask Mr. Cooper how the snake got on the roof, for he didn't put it there!

Health Guarded by Nurse at City Pool In Patterson Park

What a wonderful time the kiddies of Glendale are having at the new municipal plunge in the Patterson avenue Park.

Saturday and Sunday saw them there in larger numbers than before and just as the 5 o'clock whistle blew yesterday for the remaining few to get out of the water, the camera snapped the accompanying picture.

Both L. R. Adams, manager of the plunge, and Miss Gladys Zile, the attending nurse, are supposed to be in the picture, but the bathers hypnotized the camera's eye.

Miss Zile was busy yesterday inspecting all the newcomers to the pool and watching for contagious and infectious diseases. On account of the large number using the small tank it is necessary to use every precaution against an epidemic.

Through the power of his sixty publications, especially his three leading newspapers — London Times, Daily Mail and Evening News—Lord Northcliffe gained the sobriquet of cabinet maker. He was given credit for the downfall of the Asquith government in 1916 and the elevation of David Lloyd George to the premiership. Later, however, a political feud developed and the Northcliffe papers bitterly attacked Lloyd George, demanding his resignation.

Lord Northcliffe went down fighting. He was continuing three vigorous fights when he was forced to give up his work. One campaign went by the slogan: "We stand by France—" a favorite headline in his papers. This campaign was aimed against Lloyd George's opposition to the French policy in Germany.

Removes Unique Figure

The death of Lord Northcliffe removes a unique figure in modern British history. He changed English thought completely and was the greatest single force for progressiveness in England. He was ruthless in breaking down old traditions. He was the first to introduce modern newspaper methods in England—methods that might formerly have been termed "yellow."

LEVY MAYER DIES IN HOTEL SUITE AT CHICAGO

Multi-Millionaire Attorney Well Known for Fight on Eighteenth Amendment

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Levy Mayer, multi-millionaire member of the Chicago Bar and one of the most noted corporation lawyers in the country was found dead today by his valet crouched on his knees at a window of his suite in the Blackstone hotel.

Dr. M. H. Wilson, house physician of the Auditorium hotel, the first physician to reach the body, pronounced death due to heart failure.

Mr. Mayer returned to his suite from a trip to the country yesterday. He appeared in the best of health, with the exception of a slight pain in the back of the head, of which he had complained constantly.

Mr. Mayer was reputed to be a multi-millionaire. He owned the Stratford hotel and was also a heavy stockholder in both the Blackstone and Congress hotels.

Orders Autopsy. Word of the famous lawyer's death was flashed to the office of Coroner Peter M. Hoffman. A coroner's physician immediately was sent to the hotel for an autopsy.

The body was found on the floor of his room. It was clothed in his night garments. Mr. Mayer apparently had been stricken after he had risen from his bed, possibly to seek aid for a sudden illness.

Mr. Mayer was born in Richmond, Va., October 23, 1858. He moved with his parents to this city, where he graduated from high school, later entering Yale as a special student and taking up work in the law department of the university. Mr. Mayer's most famous legal fight of recent years was his attempt to knock out the eighteenth amendment on the ground that it was unconstitutional.

'WALL FLOWER'S' CAST IS SUPERB

Rupert Hughes' Production at Glendale Theatre Again Today and Tuesday

"The Wall Flower," the new Goldwyn picture, by Rupert Hughes, which was presented last night at the Glendale theatre, is a comedy in Mr. Hughes' best manner. The pathos of the plain girl who always "sits out" dances, and whose sorrows almost turn into tragedy, is excellently portrayed by Miss Colleen Moore. She is a comedienne of rare ability, and her art ranges from broad farce to tragic heights. For one so young, she has made an outstanding success with her impersonation of the wall flower.

A surprise is in store for those who attend the Glendale theatre when they discover one of the principal parts in "The Wall Flower" acted splendidly by a college boy, a novice, as an actor, and who is none other than Rush Hughes, son of the author. The young man was spending his holidays at his father's Los Angeles home during the making of the photoplay, and begged for a part in the picture. The result of the experiment in using a real college boy for one of the major parts has been hugely successful.

In addition to the regular program which includes Al St. John in "Special Delivery," there will be a preview tonight of "The Drifters," starring Leo Maloney and Josephine Hill.

VOLE OF FARMERS TO OPPOSE SHIP SUBSIDY, CLAIM

Farm Credit Records of Candidates to Undergo Strict Investigation

By WM. K. HUTCHINSON For International News Service. WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—"Improve farm credits."

This is the plea of middle western farmers to both major political parties as the congressional elections draw nigh.

Senators and congressmen, seeking re-election, and their opponents, seeking nominations, will have to stand pledged for a revivification of agricultural credits before they will win the farmers' support, it was declared here by John Tromble, president of the Kansas Farmers' union.

The trouble with the country is a restriction of farm credits, Tromble asserted, and its only remedy is freely extended financial aid from the government. The record of each man seeking public office in the coming campaign, Tromble said, would be searched for his true position on the farm credits before support will be tendered or withheld. Political affiliations will be a side-issue, he added.

Tromble also contended the Harding-Lasker ship subsidy plan would be "opposed to the end" by middle western farmers and farm organizations because it "favored a few" to the cost of many.

U. S. Should Run Ships. "If the administration actually wants a ship subsidy, why doesn't it run the ships itself?" Tromble said. "I would not be as much opposed to such a plan as you think. The money over to private shipping interests. Ninety per cent of the thinking farmers will never vote for a ship subsidy. They will look upon it as the handiwork of Wall Street. They will feel the farmer has enough burdens now without adding the payment of a ship subsidy to their shoulders."

Tromble, turning to farmers' financial problems, declared "deflation of the currency" was the principal cause of all their ailments. "There should be a real government system for the care of the farmers' financial troubles," he continued. "Federal reserve banks have failed to solve the farmers' difficulties. The government cannot be coupled with private enterprise and expect to see the farmer reap benefits."

Should Extend Credit. "The government credits should be extended through direct governmental channels and not through the agencies of private enterprise. Under this latter system, which obtains at present, the farmer does not get the benefits of government credits. Private individuals, having control of great credit, use it to their own advantage. The government actually has little to say about its distribution once the paper reaches individual banks."

"The federal reserve banks have not solved the difficulty, and it will not be solved until the law is amended or a new act passed by congress which will take government farm credits out of private hands and turn them over to public institutions to disburse to the farmer."

Grasshopper Plague No Longer Feared

URBANA, Ill.—Danger of a grasshopper plague is small in Illinois this year, according to State entomologist W. P. Flint. Flint states few reports have come to him this year of grasshoppers overrunning farm lands. A few localities have been menaced by increasing numbers of the hoppers and Flint advises poisoning if more than five to the square foot appear.

It is the land of gold you are living in today, folks. In the News' columns you will notice how a well brought to light new deposits of the precious metal in the vicinity of Centerville, a place visited on our recent trip through the state.

Sure and we would have taken a long drink there and gotten some gold into our system had we known it was flowing from wells.

There is no need moralizing on the railroad strike. Having been stalled on the desert at Barstow myself in the fall of 1919 by another of those unauthorized walkouts for which this state is noted, I can express no sympathy for any person or group of persons who takes advantage of the public in such manner.

The Santa Fe railroad company was then forced to send automobiles from Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino to save its passengers from starving.

That was a pretty how-do-you-do! A few piratical profiteers charged those who could pay it $25 for the privilege of escaping 120 in the shade—and no shade to be found on the desert. And today history is repeating itself.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Wednesday We Celebrate Bright Business Ahead Confidence in the Future Letting 'Em Sit on Desert

By Gil A. Cowan

No use getting away from it, the talk of the town is the community picnic which will be held Wednesday at the new Glendale park, recently acquired by the city, in Verdugo Woodlands vicinity.

The News' columns are filled with anticipation of the affair and not until the sunset throws its curtain of shadows over the green Verdugo hills will people begin to forget the occurrence.

And then it will be the talk of the town for the year following, for nothing like it has been held here in many a moon. However, there used to be a park across the boulevard on the west side of Verdugo canyon which was the rendezvous for everyone in Los Angeles twenty-five or thirty years ago.

In those days it was a great excursion for Angelenos to pack their picnic lunches and take the "dummy" train to Long Beach, Santa Monica or Glendale. The latter offered the foothills and mountain streams, which was especially attractive in summer.

There was a dance pavilion, a baseball game and several trickling streams in which to cool beverages which were then popular. Many a romance had its inception in the old Verdugo park and every once in a while someone returns to Glendale to tell of "them glorious days."

So once again history will repeat itself. The people of another generation will make their way to the trails, enjoy the ball games, the dancing, the music and the festive spirit which the hills have heard before.

Will you be there? We'll say you will!

Business prospects for Glendale during the fall and winter never seemed brighter, according to close students of economic conditions.

With banner crops in the San Fernando valley here at right home; with quite a bit of prosperity in the east and a tendency on the part of people with means to come to California and avoid the coal shortage; with every commodity hitting new high marks in the market, etc.; with all of that there should be some prosperity prevalent.

For Glendale people let it be added that the world has gone forth from the greatest economists in the country, in this term: "Buy suburban property." That is exactly what this city has to offer and if a long profit is to be taken, buy now while prices are right.

Already several of the larger subdividers are threatening to raise the prices on choice residential lots and that alone will offer the investor one opportunity to profit.

And these same people who figure things out scientifically say that any well located property in Southern California is going to advance in price because of the ever increasing demand. There is another opportunity to make some money.

Last, but not least, the purchase of real property is the most substantial investment that can be made. Most favorable terms may be made and a person can double, triple and even quadruple money in a few months by dealing in land.

In 1919 when the writer returned from the army there were more bankrupt people, literally speaking, in every place visited than were ever known before.

Well, in 1922 these same "busted" hoppers who hung on for dear life in Southern California are now worth thousands upon thousands of dollars, building buildings, buying ranches, buying anything and everything and enjoying life because they had confidence in their own belief.

In Glendale this was particularly true and when an enthusiastic real estate salesman points out these people and tells newcomers how they have prospered it seems nothing short of a fairy tale.

It is the land of gold you are living in today, folks. In the News' columns you will notice how a well brought to light new deposits of the precious metal in the vicinity of Centerville, a place visited on our recent trip through the state.

'THE GREAT ALONE' GIVES SALISBURY BEST ROLE

T. D. L. Today Presents Big Mystery Film You Will Want to See

Monroe Salisbury will be seen in "The Great Alone," his newest starring vehicle, at T. D. & L. Theatre.

In "The Great Alone," a West Coast Film production, Jacques Jaccard, a play-writing director famous for the amount of action he injects into his pictures, has provided an original story for Monroe Salisbury, a star noted for his virile portrayals. And Isadore Bernstein, producer of many productions big in theme and in scope, has personally supervised the making of the picture which was directed by Jaccard.

Monroe Salisbury is at his best in the role of "Silent" Duval, in "The Great Alone," which was written and directed by Jacques Jaccard. Salisbury plays the role of a half-breed who has been educated at Stanford University, and later sent to the North by his guardian as secret agent for a guardian's star. He is shown as a grivon star in the university, his prowess incurring the animosity of some of the student body who resent the heroism of a half-breed. A pretty girl defends him. Later efforts to repay his debt of gratitude provide the basis of the tremendously thrilling action of the story.

At least to the 300 girl employees of Kansas City's municipal government—hospital nurses, stenographers, clerks, police matrons and other department employees—are concerned.

For Lieutenant Walter Fitzsimmons, police inspector of uniforms and authority extraordinary on "how long should a woman's dress be to still a dress," has ruled that "nine inches from the ground is modest, proper and classy—not not chick."

As a result Lieutenant Fitzsimmons has the feminine wrath of the city swirling about his head in angry protest—and Fitzsimmons is only thirty-two years old.

Inspector's Ruling. The police inspector's ruling followed an edict of officials of the Benton exchange of the Kansas City Telephone company issued last week, in which it was ruled girl operators cannot wear dresses which are higher than two inches below the knee.

The order followed a display of dimples beneath the sheer silks of girl operators of the Benton exchange.

The order further states that "pink things" must not appear beneath the waists and open-work sweaters now affected by flapperdom.

"But the two inch below the knee ruling isn't modest," Lieutenant Fitzsimmons announced in making his ruling.

His answer to the problem of the day—"How long should a woman's skirt be, and what is modesty in dress?"—came in an official bulletin issued to all city employees.

"Skirts of female employees must not be higher than nine inches above the ground. Waists must not be too low cut, and under no circumstances may the garments worn beneath waists be seen. Sleeves must be of modest length."

As a result flapperdom here has labeled Lieutenant Fitzsimmons "a dub."

"But I'm right—absolutely right," the police lieutenant defends himself, asking that the women's clubs of the city take up the matter and make a ruling.

"I'm not so old that I can't admire a well-turned ankle and a little bit more, but I believe that the display of too much feminine charm wrecks office efficiency. Male employees, thrown in contact with girls who wear modern costumes, spend more time in thought than in work."

"The flapper's argument that modern clothing is designed to meet present-day needs sounds good on paper, but it doesn't work out in reality."

"Employers the country over know this. Some of them are too timid to rule on the matter—it is

Nine Inches From Ground Is Declared Proper Length For Dresses Worn By Girl Municipal Employees at Kansas City

"Employers the country over know this. Some of them are too timid to rule on the matter—it is costing them dollars in lost time each day."

Little Protest. The telephone company here is experiencing but little protest over its dress ruling.

Skirts, the company found, were growing shorter, despite the Paris edict of "more cloth."

The "two inch below the knee" ruling followed this discovery.

In addition the telephone company ruled that "pink things" were designed to be worn—not seen; that open-work sweaters might be designed for comfort, but not for modesty.

Telephone officials say their girls accepted the order without protest.

"But they won't stand for the city's ruling to its girl employees," the telephone company says. "Nine inches from the ground," our girls say, "puts dresses back to grandmother's day," the operators state.

"He but follows the bent of his disposition, quick of temper, covetous, and self seeking; today talking with angels and tomorrow listening to the counsels of Satan, today sitting at the table of the Lord and tomorrow dining with the Devil. Perhaps not today but tomorrow your guilt will come to the surface and society, business and the church will know not only who you are but what you are."

Let us not wait until the sunset of life before we come to a sense of our divine obligations but today give ourselves up to wholly following our Lord, knowing that he who is true to God cannot be false to any man."

FAILURE TO KEEP PROMISE MAKES ONE A LIAR

Doctor Winnard Tells His Tropico Congregation to Study Selves

"Be sure your sins will find you out!" exclaimed Dr. James F. Winnard last night in his sermon at the Tropico Presbyterian Church on the subject of "The Man who said he would—and wouldn't."

"It takes all sorts of people to make up a world," he remarked. "We find them all in our little world of Glendale. And could we but see ourselves as others see us, it might be that we could see a picture of which we would not be so proud."

"Jacob was the man who said he would and wouldn't. He was the type of a large class of people in the world today—both in and out of the church—who will make any sort of a promise but utterly disregard any obligation to fulfill it. Such men as Jacob admit ability to perform but show pernicious obstinacy in refusing to do the thing promised. Their failure to function lies not in their ignorance of duty nor lack of ability but in lack of inclination and a perverseness of spirit."

"Jacob had a spotted career. But no more so than many of us. On pretense of brotherly helpfulness he stole the birthright from his brother Esau by taking undue advantage of his necessity. Ill gotten gains profited him but little as he was compelled to leave his home and go to a far country that his life might be safe. But by and by God comes into his life again and commands him to 'Go up to Bethel and dwell there.' In obedience Jacob goes back to his home land and to the fulfillment of his vows and is called no longer Jacob but Israel."

"The man in this day who makes promises and refuses to meet them is a liar; if he makes pledges in a business way and will not fulfill them, he is a fraud; and if he makes vows to the church and to his God and fails to keep them, he is a hypocrite."

"He but follows the bent of his disposition, quick of temper, covetous, and self seeking; today talking with angels and tomorrow listening to the counsels of Satan, today sitting at the table of the Lord and tomorrow dining with the Devil. Perhaps not today but tomorrow your guilt will come to the surface and society, business and the church will know not only who you are but what you are."

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

LUCK AND WORK

"I call her lucky. She's never had to work hard."

We were talking about a woman who has had a very unsatisfactory life. She has had ill health, love disappointment and loneliness. I know of few people whose lives seem sadder to me than hers. But one of the group who were talking about her could not see why we pitied her. And the reason she gave was the above:

"She's never had to work hard."

As if that made a happy life! As if having to work hard made people unhappy!

Their Reward is to Come.

Of course it's a cruel thing to have to work beyond our strength. It's a heartbreaking thing to have to work when you are sick. I know of no one in the world who has more of my sympathy than the mothers of young children who have to keep on, no matter how sick or weary or sleep starved they are, just because there is no one to take their places and their work cannot be put off or neglected. And, of course, there are many other people who because of ill health, unfitness for their job, or too heavy burdens of one sort or another, have to struggle along doing work beyond their strength.

The Greatest Blessing.

But work itself isn't a curse. To have work to do and the strength and health and capacity to do it is the greatest blessing in the world.

Work gives savor to pleasure and to rest.

Undiluted pleasure never has the same poignancy as the pleasure of which we can only have a limited amount, the pleasure we have to work for and plan for and wait for. On that Monday morning when we come back from our two weeks' vacation we think we should be perfectly happy if we could spend all our time that way. But we shouldn't. Part of the delight came from its brevity and from the contrast between work and idleness. That is why people who try to make their lives all pleasure soon find that pleasure growing flat and tasteless and either seek unasily for new sensations or turn back to work.

The Man To Envy.

And as for "rest," that soon becomes restlessness unless you have labor to give you an appetite for it.

Work is the balance that keeps us from going insane when our hearts are full to breaking with grief, or our minds a chaos of whirling fears and anxieties.

Who has not experienced times like these when one would give anything if one could only work 24 hours a day?

Don't ever envy anyone because he doesn't have to work hard. If you must envy someone envy the man who has the strength and the opportunity and the capacity to do more than his share of the world's work. He is the lucky man, not the other.

MEALS FOR A DAY
BREAKFAST
 Berries and Cream
 Bread Omelet
 Toast Coffee

LUNCHEON
 Cheese Souffle
 Green Pepperish Sandwiches
 Orange Jelly, Cake
 Iced Tea

DINNER
 Fruit Cup
 Shoulder of Veal
 Browned Rice with Tomato Sauce
 Corn on Cob, Cold Slaw,
 Coffee Bavarian Cream
 Sliced Oranges

Bread Omelet—Soak four table-spoons milk for fifteen minutes, then one-eighth teaspoon each of salt and pepper. Separate two eggs and beat until light. Add the yolks to the bread and milk and cut and fold in the whites. Turn into a heated buttered pan and cook until set. Fold and turn on heated dish.

Cheese Souffle—Melt two table-spoons butter and blend two table-spoons flour with it; set over low fire and when they bubble, add gradually two cups of hot milk, season with one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper, then slowly one-half cup grated cheese. Remove from the fire; add the beaten yolks of four eggs, cool the mixture, then add the beaten whites of four eggs, stirring all together thoroughly. Put in pudding dish which has been well buttered, and bake in a moderate oven until it is set like custard. Serve at once.

Green Pepper Sandwiches—Cut slice from stem end of three or four green peppers; remove seeds and all white portion. Cook in boiling, salted water ten or twelve minutes; drain and chop very fine, drain again and mash to pulp. Cream one-half cup of butter and stir in the pulp. Spread between white or entire wheat sandwiches.

Fruit Cup—Prepare and cut into small cubes an equal quantity of oranges, bananas and canned pineapple; mix with a little sugar and lemon juice. Put in refrigerator to thoroughly chill.

Braised Shoulder of Veal—Bone, stuff and sew in shape a shoulder of veal. Brown entire surface in hot fat; dredge with flour and remove to heavy iron or aluminum kettle and add three-fourth cup diced vegetables, carrot, turnip and onion, twelve peppercorns, a blade of mace, a sprig or two of thyme and marjoram, and three cups of boiling water. Cover closely and cook four hours in a very slow oven, turning after the second hour. Serve with brown gravy made from liquor in pot.

Browned Rice With Tomato Sauce—Wash three-fourth cup of rice and sprinkle very slowly into a large pot of rapidly boiling water, to which one tablespoon of salt has been added. Cook until rice is soft, about thirty minutes. Drain in colander, and pour over one quart of hot water. Drain well and return to pot in which it was cooked and let stand until cool and dry. Melt two table-spoons butter in frying pan, add rice, and cook until browned, stirring lightly with a fork. Pour in hot serving dish and pour over hot tomato sauce.

Coffee Bavarian Cream—Soak one-half gelatine in four table-spoons cold milk for five minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs until creamy, add four table-spoons granulated sugar, and pour on this slowly, stirring constantly, one cup of hot milk. URTICARIA. Nettle-rash, or hives; a skin-disease characterized by the sudden appearance of smooth, slightly elevated patches, which are usually whiter than the surrounding skin and unattended by severe itching. It may, however, exist in a chronic form. The disorder often arises from irritation of the gastro-intestinal, pulmonary, or urinary mucous membrane. The ingestion of certain foods, such as shell-fish, is apt to produce it. Menstruation or mental emotion may also be a cause.

Statistics Related On Country Schools

PITTSBURG. — Disadvantages of the country school child in comparison with the city trained child were pointed out by Prof. Mabel Carney of Columbia University after a series of conferences with country school superintendents from all over the nation.

"Almost half the children of the United States, that is, eight million, attend one and two-teacher rural schools in buildings of the box-car type," Professor Carney said. "Many of these buildings are neglected beyond description."

"Their school term averages 137 days a year as against 187 days a year for city children. The average daily attendance for city school children is 80 per cent, while for country children it is 65 per cent."

"All this is greatly complicated by the question of child labor on the farm. It is estimated that one and one-half million country children are engaged in farm labor to their detriment and kept out of school. For this reason illiteracy is twice as great in rural as in urban territory."

"The country boy or girl is getting about one-half the teaching ability, less than half the supervision and not quite half the efficient administration of school affairs that is everywhere accorded the city child."

"That country children prosper as well as they do is due more largely to the wholesome influence of the average country home than to any advantage gained in the one-teacher school. The one-teacher school is an archaic institution and should be abandoned and replaced by a consolidation as quickly as possible."

The wisest and most direct solution of our national country life problem is to be attained through proper attention to the rural schools of the country."

BEAUTY CHATS

NEW STYLES ARE MOST BECOMING

No matter how pleased we are with our dainty Summer frocks and picture hats, there is always a keen interest in what the approaching Fall season will have to offer—especially in millinery. And it is the new hats that are first introduced, bringing with them the newest colors and fancies which one can expect to see repeated later in wraps and gowns.

From Paris comes hint of the Persian influence. While this extends to all dress accessories, it is particularly attractive for trimming the light weight felt hats which are being used so much at present.

I saw this Persian effect exemplified the other day in a grey hat of fine French felt. The shape was the familiar round crown with wide upturned brim, the edge of which was bound with Persian silk. Directly below this binding, and encircling the brim, was a tightly rolled coil of soft grey silk. So much for the tailored effect. But it was the graceful flowing scarfs that hung from the right side of the hat's brim that made it so adaptable for wear with dressy frocks! These scarfs gave the impression of being a continuation of the coil and the binding (one being Persian and the other grey of different lengths, anywhere from 18 to 30 inches long.)

Other felts, while less dressy, were just as smart and showed the Persian touch somewhere in their perfectly tailored trimming. These hats are mostly seen in pale colors and are made up from the finest quality of felt.

Tucked away in the French rooms of the large shops are adorable hats for later showing. These are an achievement of tailored shades that will harmonize perfectly with any number of colors.

Centerville Scene of New Gold Find In Northern California

CENTERVILLE, Cal., Aug. 14.—Great quantities of gold-bearing gravel followed at deeper levels by larger deposits of black, heavily mineralized sand, were found Friday in a well being dug on the place of I. N. Hirsch, one mile from Irvington on the Mission-San Jose road.

Upon starting the well, specks of what were pronounced gold, appeared and in the gravel formation they grew heavier. The black sand is considered by experts to be rich, but assays have not been announced. The sand is part of the shore of an underground river which a survey recently showed to flow from the northern portion of California, heavy with gold.

Miles Owens, garage worker, reports a chicken dressed for dinner, had gold particles in its crop. Tracing it out, it had been ranging on the Hirsch property.

Centerville has been thrown into a fever of excitement and all are ready to stake claims the moment assay reports are returned.

Trap Set for Dope Peddlers In Paris

PARIS—Is Paris the cocaine "jobbing centre" for the world? Paris police, spreading a net to trap dope peddlers, believe it is. With European thoroughness and French police methods famous for their ingenuity, they wait and watch and peer and pry. Every few days they make an arrest. But by their own admission, they are nearly powerless. The traffic goes on practically unabated.

Every few nights artists or other Montmartre apartment dwellers are awakened from sleep by screams and confusion.

"Only a coke raid," someone says, and blinds are redrawn. It is too usual to be disturbing.

The story is that cocaine jobbers get the dope from Germany for the equivalent of $100 a pound and retail it for as much as $1,500.

A regular system for smuggling cocaine into France has been established, according to the police. Baking little boxes of cocaine into loaves of bread or apple cakes is a common method for transportation. Bringing dope across the border in false-bottomed powder boxes is another. Wrist watches with no works is another popular means of evading the law.

Jack H. Saunders, proprietor of "Jack's Bar," near the Opera, well known to many Americans, has been arrested on a charge of peddling cocaine. Police allege that a Montmartre retail dope peddler who frequents a popular all-night resort bought his "coke" from Saunders and that two pounds of the stuff were found in the bar-room when detectives raided the place.

Chinese Moonshiner Is Caught In Denver

DENVER—"Jimmy" Hammill, federal prohibition enforcement agent, a former Denver boxing promoter and widely known in sporting circles in Colorado, gets the credit for discovering what is believed to be the first Chinese "moonshiner" ever arrested in the United States.

An aged oriental, unable to understand the English language, was arrested by Hammill in a Lawrence street house, here where the enforcement agent found a complete distillery, $1000 worth of manufactured liquor and 1000 gallons of mash.

The prisoner merely mumbled "Tom" when efforts were made to learn his name.

The entire upper floor of the house had been used for the manufacture of illicit liquor, the officer said. The still was of 75-gallon capacity. When Hammill entered he was nearly overcome by fumes.

Book Reviews

Some timely books are now on the shelves at the Glendale branch library at Los Feliz road and Brand boulevard. Especially timely just now at the fruit season is Lincolnt's manual of "Successful Canning and Preserving," by Oia Powell, connected with the United States department of Agriculture. It covers the subject in a very thorough and practical manner, including pickling, jelly making and the preservation of meats.

"Behind the Mirrors," by an anonymous writer of Washington, D. C., gives brilliant and caustic characterizations of many of the prominent statesmen and politicians of the one of Hiram Johnson being of particular interest to the people of California just now.

In the juvenile department will be found the following recent additions:

"The Little Match Man," by Barzini.
 "The Black Buccaneer," by Meador.
 "The Wolf Hunters," by Grinnell.
 "The Mark of the Knife," by Ernst.
 "The Wrecking Master," by Paine.
 "The Boy's Life of Abraham Lincoln," by Nicolay.
 "The Boy's Life of Edison," by Meadowcroft.
 "Wild Folk," by Scoville.
 "Barnaby Lee," by Bennett.
 "Boy's Book of Mounted Police," by Crump.
 "At Home in the Water," by Corson.
 "Gunner Aboard the Yankee," by Lewis.
 "Interesting Neighbors," by Jenkins.
 "High Adventure," by Hall.

The Riddle of the Frozen Flame

By M.E. & T.W. HANSHEW
Copyright, 1920, by Doubleday, Page & Company

CHAPTER VI.

A Shot in the Dark

The church clock, some distance over Hervey's Hill which lies at the back of Merriott Towers, broke the half silence that had fallen upon the little group of men in the warm smoking room with twelve snoring, deep-throated notes. At the sound of them Merriott got to his feet and stretched his hands above his head. A damper had fallen over the spirits of his guests after Wynne had gone out into the night on his foolish errand, and the fury against him that had stirred Nigel's soul was gradually wearing off.

"Well, Wynne said twelve, didn't he?" he remarked, with a half laugh as he surveyed the grave faces of the men who were seated in a semi-circle about him, "and twelve it is. We'll wait an hour or two, and then if he doesn't come we'll make a move for bed. He'll be playing some beastly trick upon us, you may be sure of that! What a horrible temperament the man has! He was supposed to be putting up with the Brelliers tonight—old man Brellier was decent enough to ask him—and possibly he'll simply turn in there and laugh to himself at the picture of us chaps sitting here in the morning and waiting for his return!"

Doctor Bartholomew shook his white head with a good deal of obstinacy.

"I think you're wrong there, Nigel. Wynne is a man of his word, drunk or sober. He'll come back no doubt. Unless something has happened to him."

"And this from our skeptical disbeliever, boys!" struck in Tony West, raising his hands in mock horror. "Nigel, my lad, you've made an early conversion. The good doctor has a sneaking belief in the story. How now, son? What's your plan of action?"

"Half an hour's wait more, and then to bed," said Merriott, tossing back his head and setting his jaw. "I offered Wynne a bed in the first place, but he said he'd refuse me. If he hasn't made use of this opportunity to turn in at the Brelliers' place, I'll eat my hat. What about a round of cards, boys, till the time is up?"

So the cards were produced, and the game began. But it was a half-hearted attempt at best, for everyone's ear was strained for the front-door bell, and everyone had an eye half-closed toward the window. Before the half hour was up the game had fizzled out. And still Daere Wynne did not put in an appearance.

Borkins, having been summoned, brought in some whisky and Merriott remarked casually: "Wynne has ventured out to try and discover the meaning of the Frozen Flame, Borkins. He'll be back some time this evening—or rather some time tomorrow—after midnight—and myself and the other gentlemen and myself are going to make a move for bed. Keep your ears peeled in case you hear him. I sleep like the very old devil himself, when once I do get off."

Borkins, on hearing this, turned suddenly gray, and the perspiration broke out on his forehead. "Gone, sir? Mr. Wynne—gone—out there?" he said in a stifled voice. "Oh my Gawd, sir, it is—it's suicide, that's what it is! And Mr. Wynne—gone!"

"He'll never come back, I swear," Merriott laughed easily.

"Well, keep your swearing to yourself, Borkins," he returned, "and see that the gentlemen's rooms are ready for 'em. Doctor Bartholomew has the one next to mine, and Mr. West's is on the other side. I gave Mrs. Dredge full instructions this morning."

"Good-night, Borkins, and pleasant dreams," Borkins left. But his face was a dull red, and he was trembling like a man who has received a terrible shock.

"There's a case of genuine scare for you," remarked Doctor Bartholomew quietly, drawing on his pipe. "That man's nerves are like unstrung wires. Hardly ever seen a chap so frightened in all the course of my medical career. He's either had experience of the thing, or he knows something about it. Whichever way it is, he's the most terrified object I've ever laid eyes on!"

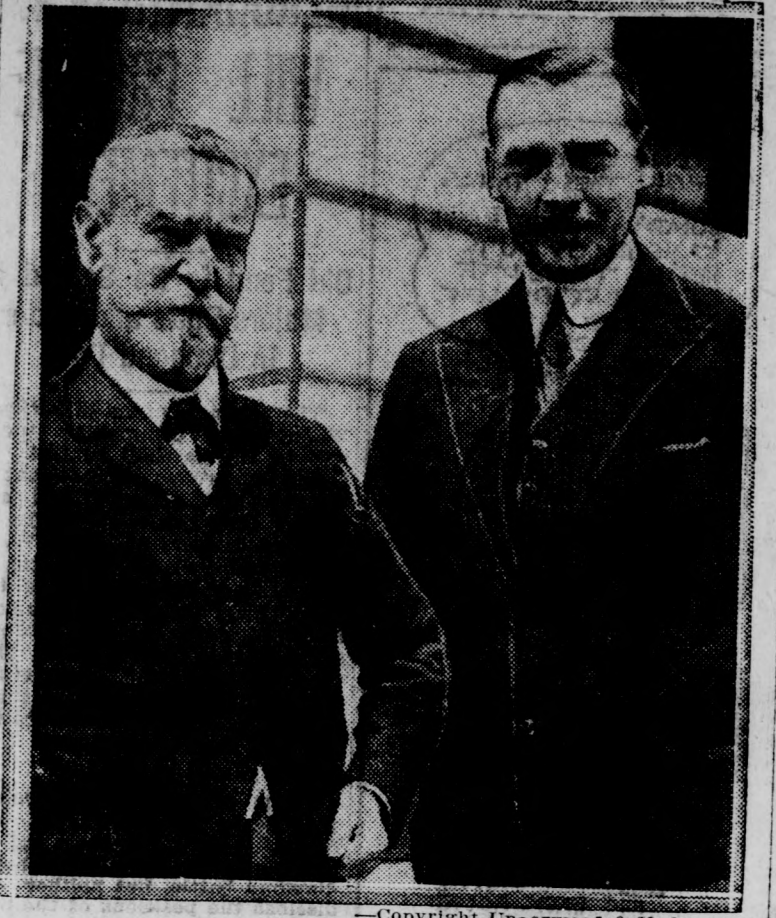

Merriott broke into a laugh. But there was not much merriment in it, for a note of uneasiness which made Tony West glance up at him shortly.

"Best place for you, old chap, is your bed," he said, getting to his feet and laying an arm across Nigel's shoulders. "Livin' down here does seem to play the old Harry with one's nerves. I'm as jumpy as a kitten myself. Take it from me, Wynne will return, Nigel, and when he does he'll see to it that we all hear him. He'll probably break a pane of glass in the place with a stone, and play a devil's dance upon the knocker. That's his usual way of expressing his pleasure, I believe. Here, here's health to you, old boy, and happiness, and the best of luck."

That little ceremony being over, they turned in. Doctor Bartholomew, his arm linked in Nigel's, and in the half-dusk of the spluttering candles, they stood together at the uncurtained window and looked out in silence upon the flames, the Frozen Flame that Wynne had gone out to investigate. For quite ten minutes they stood still. Then the doctor stirred himself and broke into a little laugh.

"Well, well, we said comfortably, whatever our friend Wynne

RADIO EXPLAINED

By E. H. LEWIS
INSTRUCTOR NEW YORK Y.M.C.A. RADIO SCHOOL

VACUUM TUBES IN TRANSMISSION

This and the following daily articles will deal with the vacuum tube as a transmitter. Before discussing the actual transmitting circuits, of which there are many, especially a beginner, to study the theoretical action of the use of the introduction of vacuum tubes, also known as audions, audiotrons and numerous other technical and trade names, resulted in remarkably great advances in radio communication. Such tubes may be used for many purposes, generate, to modulate radio oscillations to detect or rectify, as well as to amplify radio signals, and they are now used in all types of modern equipment. The further development of the tube is rapidly progressing and new applications of its use develop so rapidly that one engaged in radio work must be an assiduous reader to keep in touch with these developments. Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that the principles underlying the use of vacuum tubes and their operation under widely different conditions met in actual radio practice, be given careful study.

If two wires are connected to a battery, one to each terminal, the other ends may be brought very close together in air, yet so long as they do not touch, no current flows between them. The two ends may be enclosed in a bulb like an ordinary incandescent lamp, and the air pumped out, leaving a vacuum, and still as long as the ends are separated, no current flows. A common experience will illustrate this. When the filament of an electric lamp breaks, the current stops and the light goes out. But, if one of the two wire ends mentioned above, is heated to a bright red, or hotter it is an interesting fact that a current can be made to flow across the apparently empty space between them.

Call the two ends of wire the "electrodes" of the tube. The current between the hot and cold electrodes is made possible by the electrons given off by the hot electrode and is a large enough current to be measured by a sensitive instrument and to have highly important uses in radio communication, as will be shown in the succeeding installments.

TRANSFORMER WITH LARGE WAVE RANGE

A good and efficient radio frequency transformer designed to work on a wave range of 150-550 meters is described below. Construction is strong and instrument is well made. Four binding posts mounted on the top of case allow low usual connections to be made. Two lugs attached to case at bottom provide a means of mounting. The transformer is designed for broadcast reception and allows very sharp tuning besides increasing the range of a set very much. Perfect shielding with low distributed capacity and properly impregnated to protect it from atmospheric conditions, this transformer gives pure amplification without tube noises and distortion. Static disturbances are eliminated to a great extent. It can be used satisfactorily with these tubes—Radiotron-Cunningham-Moorehead A. P. and Meyer tubes.

It's A Fact

SHOWS DECREASE
The Department of Agriculture reports that the current year began with an increased purchasing power of farm products compared with the low-water mark reached in November and December 1921. By February, this buying power had increased by several per cent of the 1913 base. Since March, however, the price movements have changed, and the prices of farm products increased from March to June in less degree than the prices of commodities farmers buy.

The decline since March in the purchasing power of farm products has been slight but gradual.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SODA WATER

"Come on, Jackie! Come on, Peetie! And you, too, Billie and Johnnie! Come on!" cried Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, one day, as he saw the Bow Wow puppy chaps and the two Bushytail squirrel boys.

"Do you want us to come?" barked Jackie, as he chased a fly off his own little nose and made the buzzing creature sail over and light on Peetie's nose.

"It's too hot to go anywhere, unless you want us to come swimming," spoke Peetie, as he brushed the fly off his nose and caused it to go sit down on the nose of Billie, the squirrel.

"No, we aren't going swimming," said Sammie, with a jolly laugh which made his pink nose twinkle. "But I'll take you to a place where we can be shady and cool."

"Well, that will be fine," chattered Johnnie, the other squirrel boy, and then he gave a little jump, for he tickled Johnnie. It's a very hot day," added Johnnie, "and I'd love to cool off."

"Where are you going to take us?" asked Jackie. "To the polar bear ice cave of Mr. Whitewash?"

"Oh, to a better place than that," laughed Sammie. "Listen, fellows. Uncle Wiggily is down at the corner, in Dr. Possum's drug store, buying my sister Susie a glass of ice cream soda water."

"Well, what good does that do us?" Jackie wanted to know. "All the soda water your sister can drink in a week won't make us any cooler, Sammie."

"I know that," Sammie answered. "But if we go down to the drug store and stand with our noses pressed against the window on the outside, looking in, Uncle Wiggily will see us, and he can't do anything else but ask us in to have some; can he?"

The other animal boys looked at Sammie.

"That's a dandy idea!" laughed Peetie. "Uncle Wiggily is so good and kind that he'll ask us in as soon as he sees us looking hot and tired and thirsty."

"Let's run all the way down to the drug store," proposed Jackie.

"What for? Why run when it's so hot?" asked Johnnie.

"Because it will make us look all the hotter and warmer," answered Peetie, "and when we press our noses against the window Uncle Wiggily will feel sorry for us."

They all thought that was a good idea, and soon the five animal boys were racing down the woodland path that led to the drug store of Dr. Possum. When they reached the place, surely enough, there was Uncle Wiggily sitting down on a merry-go-round stool, drinking soda water, and there was Susie Littletail, the rabbit girl, doing the same thing.

"Come on, fellows!" exclaimed Sammie. "He's here all right—noses against the window—press hard, and everybody look hot and tired and thirsty!"

It was very easy for the animal boys to do this, for they surely were hot and tired and oh, so thirsty for soda water.

All of a sudden Susie put down her glass and, pointing to the big glass show window, she called to Uncle Wiggily: "Look!"

"My goodness!" exclaimed the bunny rabbit gentleman as he saw the noses of the animal boys pressed flat. "How extraordinary!" And then Uncle Wiggily did just what you would expect that jolly bunny gentleman to do. He called to Sammie and the others: "Come on in and have some ice cream soda!"

"What did I tell you?" whispered Sammie to his chums, as they all shuffled in.

"It was a good trick," said Jackie. Soon the animal boys were drinking soda water with Susie and Uncle Wiggily.

"Doesn't it tickle your nose, funny inside?" laughed Susie as some of the soda water bubbles seemed to swell up in her mouth.

"Yes," said Sammie, "but when it does that way just open your mouth and the tickling will stop." But though the animal boys tried to do this sometimes the gas bubbles of the soda water came out so fast that they felt like laughing and sneezing at the same time, which is a very hard trick to do.

All of a sudden, when the last of the soda was almost gone, into the drug store came the old Woodzie Wolf.

"Oh, ho!" growled the Wolf. "My friend, the Fuzzy Fox, said Uncle Wiggily was here. Now to nibble his ears!"

"Oh, before you do that!" cried Dr. Possum, "have a glass of soda water, Mr. Wolf!" and he set before the bad chap a glass of extra strong soda full of bubbles.

"Well, I'll drink the soda and then I'll nibble ears!" howled the Wolf. So he drank the soda and then, all at once, his nose and mouth were filled with bubbles of gas. He closed his lips tightly, not knowing any better, and then as the bubbles went up his nose, the Wolf howled: "Oh, what's the matter! I feel like a balloon! Oh, what a trick to play on me! Oh, wow!" and away he ran, having the hiccoughs and sneezes at the same time, all on account of the soda water bubbles.

"I guess everything is all right now," laughed the bunny gentleman. Then he bought each of the animal children a lollipop, and they were very happy. So if the gas stove doesn't try to walk on top of the fence with only two of its legs, and fall off into the panicky bed, I'll sell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the drooping rose.

The animal boys were racing down the woodland path.

Mgr. Glendale Ave. Branch, Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank

The fact that these coast cities in obtaining branches of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank are located in most of the important centers of California from Fresno south, makes it possible for this bank to serve the whole territory in many unusual ways.

Not only is it possible for this bank to aid the agricultural producers during the various seasons in which their crops are marketed by giving them proper credit support, but at all times courtesies can be extended to the traveler not possible by means of other banking systems. For instance, I am in receipt of a notification that residents of interior cities desirous of spending summer vacations at Long Beach, Santa Barbara, Catalina Island, Huntington Beach or San Pedro may be taking with them a memorandum of introduction from a Glendale officer and be aided by the branches of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank located in either of whereby special attention will be given in these coast cities to residents from the interior districts of California where our cards of identification are carried by the traveler and presented at our seacoast banks.

Banks in which cards of introduction may be presented include the following:

Long Beach Branch (formerly City National Bank of Long Beach).

Commercial Trust of Santa Barbara Branch (formerly Commercial Trust & Savings Bank of Santa Barbara).

Avalon Branch, at Avalon, Catalina Island.

Huntington Beach Branch, Huntington Beach, California.

Marine Branch (formerly American Marine National Bank (San Pedro)).

In addition, these cards of introduction may be presented to Mr. George J. Rush at the office of this banking system at Sixth and Spring Streets, Los Angeles. Mr. Rush is Junior vice president in charge of service within Los Angeles.

They Say That

Not everything in life should be scanned with an eye to its commercial value. And, above all things, one should choose friends for other than business reasons. But, nevertheless, one's friends and associates have a lot to do with one's success in work. And the one starting on a business career with the determination to make 100 per cent good should give some thought to this matter of his friends.

Are your friends going to lead you to waste time?

Will they tempt you to pleasures that will prevent you from getting necessary rest?

Will they be the means of your spending more money than you should?

Are they the kind who perhaps simply fritter away your time through trivial talk, unnecessary interruptions and other such time and energy consumers that work to their mischief almost before you are aware of it?

Or are they the kind who encourage you to join in wholesome recreations in which otherwise you might not indulge?

Do they inspire you to do better work? Do they make you ambitious to climb higher than you had yourself planned?

If you are taking up your life work seriously, if you are striving for the race, so to speak, so that you shall run to win, this matter of friends and associates needs careful thought. Not, as has been said, that the dollar mark should cast its shadow on everything in life. But that one shall join forces with the forward-looking and upward-moving rather than with the stationary, or those gravitating downward, with the constructive rather than with the destructive. If one can lift others, all well and good. It is helpful to help. But to join with those whose ideals, ambitions and habits are the opposite of one's own and to let one's self be influenced to go their way out of business hours is not the most efficient method to plan for success in the business career.

PALOMAR PERMITS GLENDALE TEAM NINTH STRAIGHT

Merchants Sluggers Win in Yesterday's Contest, 5-3; Fifteenth Victory

Letting the Palomar squad down to the tune of a 5 to 3 score, the Glendale Merchants' baseball team yesterday afternoon took their ninth consecutive game, and raised their standing to 15 games won out of 17 played. The team average now stands at .882.

Ageson, local twirler, fanned thirteen men, and allowed but four hits in the entire game. Not a hit was made off Glendale's prospective big leaguer until the sixth. During the fourth, when Palomar had not yet connected for a single hit, "Ty" Cobb, manager of the Merchants, told Aggie to leave off the fancy work and send over nothing but straight ones. So for the last five innings, Ageson sent them right down the groove, but with so much steam that they landed in King's mitt about the time the dazed batter began to swing.

Cobb Back in Game
Cobb, who has not played during the last four games, occupied the center garden, and displayed some flashy playing. In the fourth he dragged down a sizzling drive over second, and just missed making a double play. He threw to home. The runner had just left third and started back. King relayed the ball to Acosta, but just too late to throw out the Palomar man.

Wilson, Glendale's classy little slugger, handled the stick with inspiration. In the eighth, Cobb, then on second, signaled to Wilson for a hit-and-run. "Spark Plug" laid a beautiful bunt down the third base line and Cobb padded in from second for a score.

Flanders, second baseman with the locals, repeated King's stunt of two weeks ago by batting 1000. He rolled out five hits out of five times up.

Palomar Plays Well
Palomar played a good brand of ball, but couldn't scratch much out of the merchants. Gandy, who occupied the mound for Palomar, did some pretty work, striking out ten men.

Next Wednesday Glendale plays their opponents of a week ago, the Cleary Athletic club of Los Angeles. The game will be staged at the community picnic at the new city park, and it is understood that the Clearys, and especially Trautwein, hurler, are coming back with blood in their eyes. Harris and King will form the battery for the Merchants.

Next Sunday a game has been scheduled with the Glendale Fire and Police team, recently organized. The city men promise some big league stuff, and Cobb's boys will do their stuff in their usual form. Denny Johnson will twirl for the Merchants with King behind the plate. Battery for the city forces has not been announced.

The score of yesterday's game:

Tagging All Bases

After winning thirteen in a row, the Pirates were beaten in the tenth by the Reds, 5 to 4, a triple by Daubert and Fonseca's single deciding the issue.

The Phils were beaten for the sixth straight time by Dutch Reuther, when the Dodgers pulled out a ninth inning victory, 3 to 2.

Having nothing else to offer, McGraw tried his hand with Virgil Barnes and the young man not only turned back the Braves, 4 to 2, but fanned seven of them, getting three in one inning.

Australians Need One More Victory

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The players of the French and Australian Davis cup teams made ready to complete their semi-final round matches on the courts of the Longwood Cricket club today. The final singles matches will bring together Gerald Patterson, of Australia, and Henri Cochet of France, on one court, and Pat O'Hara Wood of Australia, and Andre Gobert, of France, on the other.

The Australians need only one more victory to assure them of a place in the final round against Spain in Philadelphia this week.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT OF SPORT

By WOOD COWAN

BILL JOHNSTON DEFEATED PATTERSON AT FOREST HILLS THREE YEARS AGO BY FEEDING TO HIS BACK HAND. THAT'S HIS WEAK SPOT.

GERALD PATTERSON
LANKY AUSTRALIAN MEMBER OF ANTIPODES DAVIS CUP TEAM, A NEPHEW OF MME. MELBA AND COUNTED THE BEST PLAYER AUSTRALIA HAS DEVELOPED RECENTLY

Gerald Patterson, the Australian tennis ace, is a comparatively young man, just past 25 years.

On his last visit to the United States in 1919, paired with Norman Brookes, he won the National Doubles Championship.

Patterson has a build similar to Tilden, tall and slender. His service is shot over with the speed of a bullet. No one, not even McLaughlin, has possessed the speed in serving that is Patterson's, and from all accounts he is whipping them over the net with more gip than ever. His back hand has improved to such an extent that it has become an offensive rather than a defensive stroke.

At Forest Hills, during his former visit when he met Bill Johnston, Patterson's backhand was woefully weak and the wily Bill fed them to him on every volley. This weakness has been rectified and it will be a different Patterson this season.

Australia, with Patterson, Anderson and Wood, has a much stronger combination than Japan possessed last year with Shimizu and Kumagae. In England the three Australians have defeated the Belgian and Czech-Slovakian Davis cup teams, and at Wimbledon, Patterson won the singles by defeating Lycett—England's greatest player.

MERCHANTS CLASH WILL PROVIDE EXCITEMENT

Old Feud to Be Settled by Majors Butts and Potter in Diamond Dust

The principal arena of battle at Wednesday's community picnic will be the baseball contest between two groups of prominent local merchants recruited and marshalled into battle under the respective banners of Major W. P. Potter and Major H. M. Butts.

The fiery leaders of the two nines have entered the diamond arena to settle the feud aroused at the time of the great Merchants' association membership campaign when the forces under Major Butts defeated the Potterites by a close score.

Guard Their Plans
Plans of battle are carefully guarded by the captains of both teams. Each has given out the personnel of his forces for the big diamond battle, but neither will disclose the positions of the players. On the Potter team are J. Ray Bentley, Dan Kelly, Owen Emery, Seymour Smith, Val Hollister, Rene Olin, J. H. Wittmeyer, John Watson, Harry Moore, H. E. Wilson, S. C. Page and George Bentley, in addition to Captain W. P. Potter of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber company.

Captain Butts has marshalled together for the fray, C. H. Kirksman, Max C. Green, Jesse E. Smith, R. C. Plume, Smith MacMullin, C. J. Hatz, R. L. Taylor, W. H. Hooper, Vincent Salmacia and George B. Karr.

Sport High Spots

With Manager Wade Killefer stranded on a "strike" train somewhere between here and Chicago the Angel "misfits" yesterday proceeded to annex a hectic doubleheader as a finishing touch for their series with Colonel Charley's Puck's down-trodden Sacramento Solons. The brace of victories brought the newest Seraphic winging streak up to six and enabled the Wringleites to gain a full game on the Seals and half contest on the Tigers for the week. Six games out of seven can't be considered a bad week's work for a team with a makeshift lineup.

Three weeks now have gone by without any changes occurring in the standings of the clubs in the Pacific Coast league. Nevertheless, during that time the leaders have managed to increase the distance between them and the opposing teams to a more or less extent, though no great discrepancies are discernible. The positions of the teams at the end of the present season compared with the present standings shows the following alignment:

Club	W	L	Pct.
San Francisco	70	47	630
Vernon	83	52	585
Los Angeles	63	59	539
Oakland	63	62	504
Oakland	61	66	480
Seattle	56	70	444
Portland	53	73	421
Sacramento	50	76	397

1921

Club	W	L	Pct.
San Francisco	79	49	617
Seattle	70	52	574
Los Angeles	68	53	562
Oakland	68	56	549
Sacramento	69	57	548
Vernon	67	60	527
Salt Lake	41	79	358
Portland	31	90	256

Los Angeles has been trying for a matter of a month or more to close up the gap that exists between itself and the Vernon club without meeting any measure of success. As a matter of fact, with the possible exception of a few per cent, it is in the same identical position, having neither gained nor lost. Salt Lake has been slowly but surely bettering its position, but the advance has been so gradual and slow that it has not been apparent to any but those who keep tabs on the figures. Just what little movement there is among some of the teams is interesting. For instance the percentages of Portland at the end of the last four years have been as follows: 442, 423, 420 and 421. It would be impossible to vary less during a matter of four series in which seven games a week were played. Salt Lake city has climbed 15 points in the interval and represents about as much gain as any club can show.

All of the managers are fortifying themselves against the crucial battles which will soon begin as a result of the final dash for the pennant. This is discernible in the fact that the lineups of all the teams constantly reveal the appearance of a new name. No chances are being taken of being "caught on a limb" as was the case with San Francisco last year. It is evident that not only the Seals' management profited by the disaster, for the managers of the other teams are taking a leaf out of the book of the San Franciscans this season.

The prospects are, that in line with this policy, the fans will continue to find the new faces in the lineup at the most unexpected times. A few hours, in some cases, has sufficed to come to an agreement with a player.

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 14. Fifty-four of the leading women tennis players of the country are to start in the national singles championships on the courts of the West Side Tennis club today and, according to popular belief, fifty two of them might just as well exit, laughingly, at the earliest possible moment. Mrs. Mollie Bjurstedt Mallory, the champion, and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, ex-champion, could then settle the ultimate issue in a matter of hours instead of days, as will probably be the case.

The rock of Gibraltar offers no less an element of apparent uncertainty than does this championship meeting. Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Bundy on opposite sides of the draw, seem destined to meet in the final. Likewise, does ultimate victory of Mrs. Mallory appear ordained.

In the field today three women stand alone as having the game to beat Mrs. Mallory. They are in the order of their importance:

Mrs. Bundy, Miss Helen Willis, 16 year old California girl, and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Del.

The remaining contenders can be dismissed in a brief word. They are Miss Marguerite Davis of St. Paul, headliner of the middle west; Miss Leslie Bancroft, Miss Edith Sigourney and Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey of Boston; Mrs. Harry Bickle of Toronto, the first player of the Dominion, and Miss Martha Bayard, Miss Clare Casel, Mrs. Robert Leror, Miss Florence Ballin and Miss Ceres Baker, of the local district.

statement of the starter that he (Paddock) "beat the gun." That is not an issue for Paddock to make a decision on. It is a matter of fact entirely up to the starter, and while it is hard to believe Paddock beat the gun—he is a notably slow starter—yet it may have happened and the starter's word is final.

The acceptance of records in the first place is up to the branch A. A. U. association under whom the set of games were contested. All the sheets that Paddock presented to Bob Weaver, President of the Southern Pacific Branch of the A. A. U. are not worth the paper they are written on if the Hawaiian A. A. U. refuses to pass favorably on records made in their own district. Once the records are accepted by a local branch then the A. A. U. governing body in New York through the national records committee takes action on the papers when properly placed before that committee on the recommendation of a branch.

Paddock is a great runner. He is entitled to stick up for his rights, but the charges he flings at a duly organized and recognized branch of the A. A. U.—composed of solid business men, some of them leaders of Honolulu business affairs—is not only piffle but it is what you expect only from a child.

The Hawaiian A. A. U. has always given outside competitors a "fair deal." The Association knows its business, it knows how to handle sports and it knows how to dispense justice. The Association, even before Paddock left Honolulu, refused to allow the records and it gave substantial reasons for so refusing. Its decision was highly commended all over this country and the men down in Honolulu given credit for honestly backing their convictions which were based on facts.

It is to be regretted that Paddock should make such charges against a body of clean cut honest men who are doing their duty along sincere lines and abiding by the laws as laid down by the A. A. U. of the United States.

While there Mrs. Findlay was the guest of honor at an informal party given by Mrs. John Robert White at the latter's summer cottage at the beach city. Those present included Mrs. Frank C. Ayars, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. John Dunn, Mrs. E. E. Evans, Mrs. A. D. Pearce, Mrs. Charles Temple, Mrs. Findlay and Mrs. White.

Glendale Personals
 Mrs. Lillian Smits and sons, Evert and Howard, of 231 West Milford street, have returned from a very pleasant vacation at Balboa Beach. The Smits and Mrs. Helen Sawyer and children, Henry and Barbara, of North Jackson street, had a cottage together. H. S. Webb and mother, Mrs. Frankie Webb of Glendale motored down the latter part of last week and, accompanied by Mrs. Sawyer and family, left for San Diego and Coronado Beach.
 Lawrence D. Andrews, who for the past two years has been teaching piano and theory at Texas Christian university at Fort Worth, is again with his family and parents at 541 West Lexington drive, after attending the summer session of the University of California at Berkeley. Mr. Andrews recently received the degree of bachelor of music and association in the American Guild of Organists. He has accepted a position at Pomona college similar to that formerly held by him at Fort Worth.

Glendale Personals
 Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson of 246 North Orange street has returned from Catalina Island, where she was the guest for several days at the summer cottage of Mrs. A. M. Williams. Mrs. Hutchinson is anticipating the arrival home today of her son Paul, who has been spending the summer at Yosemite campers.
 The members of the men's committee of the White Shrine, with B. F. Bourne as chairman, are to meet tonight at the home of Mr. George Pierce, 207 East Maple avenue, for rehearsal this evening for the entertainment to be given by them August 23 at the meeting of the White Shrine of Jerusalem at Masonic Temple.
 Mrs. F. W. Cowlin of 346 West Hawthorne street, accompanied by Mrs. L. T. Rowley of 336 West Vine street, left Saturday on a four weeks' automobile trip which will take them through the Yosemite valley, the big tree district and various other points of interest in the northern part of the state. The women are expecting to be joined on the return trip by Robert Cowlin, Mrs. Cowlin's son who is now in Sacramento.

DOUBLE SURPRISE FOR MARtha AND JOHN EILERS

Latter's Party in Afternoon While Sister's Honored Same Evening

Miss Martha and John Eilers, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Eilers of 115 North Adams street, both celebrate their birthday on August 12 and they were honored Saturday with two surprise affairs, John being complimented with a party Saturday afternoon, while Martha was the honoree at a surprise affair in the evening.

School and neighbor friends comprised the company in the afternoon and the boys enjoyed lawn croquet and other games. A large pink and white birthday cake, lighted by twelve candles, was the final event of the afternoon. A pleasant part of the surprise was the collection of gifts, many of which were books on radio and accessories for John's radio set.

Those enjoying the afternoon were Fred and Howard Fallis, Howard and Dana Van Loon, Herbert Stohrer and Charles Hoyt and Merrill Empeck.

Turn Tables On Her
Martha Eilers was surprised Saturday evening when she returned from an auto ride to find a group of friends gathered at her home to celebrate her birthday.

The party was arranged by Margaret Major and Louise Hoyt and the evening was spent playing lawn croquet, games and cards. Late in the evening Mrs. Eilers, assisted by Mrs. J. S. Majors and Miss Louise Zippodt, served a three-course lunch.

Those invited for the evening were Misses Louise Hoyt, Grace Yarborough, Mildred Sooy, Margaret Majors and Harold Majors, Percy Jewel, Varrel Parker, Graham Tinning, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Majors, Miss Jessie Majors, Mrs. Ida Zippodt and Miss Louise Zippodt.

TERRIFYING TALES TOLD OF STRIKE ON DESERT

Men Collapse, Children In Convulsions As Trainmen Desert Passengers

Newton, San Francisco, appealed to the men to move the train just thirty-five miles to a watering station, but they refused.

Despite her 72 years, Mrs. E. T. Bissell of Topeka, Kan., on her tenth journey west, spoke kind words for the Santa Fe, saying all possible was done for the passengers.

Defying attempts of strikers to blockade transportation further, Santa Fe officials today moved four passenger trains under heavy guard, while United States Attorney Joe Burke, in conference with department of justice agents, rushed an investigation of conspiracy charges against union chiefs which railroad executives hope will force a "showdown" and end the strike.

A westbound passenger train at Williams and another west bound train at Ashfork, Ariz., were headed west to Seligman, Ariz. Two westbound trains at Seligman are being moved towards Needles, both with "pickup" crews.

In addition the Santa Fe expected to return to Los Angeles before night 225 of the passenger who were marooned on the desert at Needles. They are being brought to their destination by crews made up partly of railroad officials.

With her two small children, Mrs. Mary Werder of Denver, Col., daughter of Mrs. H. B. Ellis of the Glendale postoffice, is now in Salt Lake City, awaiting an opportunity to finish the trip to Glendale.

Last Friday morning Mrs. Werder with her children left Denver to visit her mother here. From Salt Lake City they were on Union Pacific train No. 19, which, with No. 7, was stalled on the desert. Yesterday noon the passengers on No. 10 were returned to Salt Lake City from Milford, Utah, to await the opening of the line.

Miss N. M. Black, general delivery clerk at the postoffice, saw a number of passengers who had been left on the Mojave desert, as they came into Los Angeles this morning. Those who were bound for other destinations were taken to the B. & M. cafeteria on Hill street, Los Angeles, for breakfast.

Strikers Nabbed As Four Bombs Explode

ROSEVILLE, Cal., Aug. 14.—Frank Barsatti and Nello Garducci, two strikers arrested early today following the throwing of four bombs, which exploded in the Southern Pacific train, were taken to Auburn today by deputy United States marshals and Sheriff Gum to be held pending further investigation.

Both men were questioned by officers following their arrest by Special Officer M. E. Lackey, who said they were running from the vicinity of the stockade immediately after the explosion.

According to officers the men were both armed and it was declared that in a search of Garducci a 20-gauge shotgun containing one exploded shell was found. This shell was declared to be of the same gauge as that which Deputy United States Marshal J. P. Sullivan was wounded Saturday morning.

New York Passenger Train Attacked

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Police, private detectives, state constabulary and railroad officials are today investigating the bombing of a West Shore passenger train last night in North Bergen, N. J.

Three bombs, witnesses declared, were thrown against the holiday-laden train, speeding toward Weehawken. The bomb exploded against the side of the cars. The latter, being steel, stood the impact, but many windows were shattered and scores of passengers were injured by bits of flying glass.

The few persons nearby when the explosions occurred said that they saw a motor car filled with men dash away from the scene. Rail officials declare that strike sympathizers threw the bombs. Union leaders disavow the deed and point to the fact that in the past the enemies of unions have done weird things to prejudice unions in the minds of the public.

LIE DETECTOR WILL REVOLUTIONIZE COURT TRIALS AND CONVICT GUILTY PERSONS, POLICE CHIEF SAYS

MAY END COSTLY LEGAL CONTESTS

Berkeley Police Are Testing Device and Its Success Is Predicted

BY ELLIS H. MARTIN.
For International News Service.
BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 14.—What will the invention of the "lie detector" mean to criminal investigation?

This question was asked Chief of Police August Vollmer, head of the only police department in the world employing the device, and in whose department it was worked out by Dr. J. A. Larsen, one of Vollmer's super-cops, who is a university graduate and a scientist.

It will eliminate conviction of the innocent and insure the conviction of the guilty, said Chief Vollmer.

It will put an end to spurious wills and eliminate the long and costly legal contests which ensue in such cases.

It will assist in putting to an end forgery of documents and materially aid in settling civil cases in which deception figures.

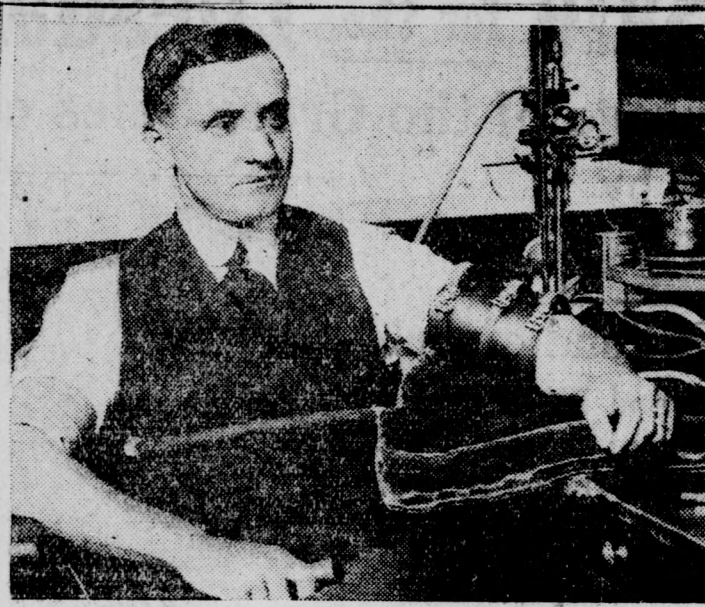

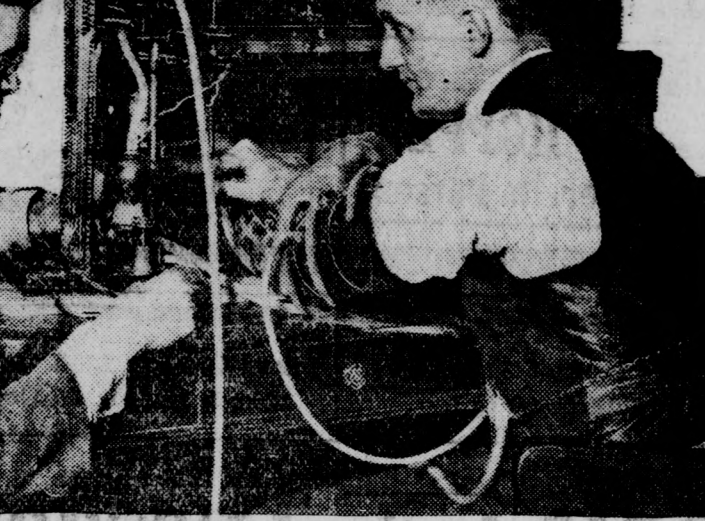

It is upon this IF that Dr. Larsen is now working.

Already hundreds of tests have been made. These are being studied, catalogued and classified. Thousands of additional tests are to be made in the penal and insane institutions of the State.

The machine evolved by Dr. Larsen permits the taking of a continuous blood pressure curve synchronously with a respiratory and a timing curve. The apparatus includes a sensitized recording strip moving on a drum, a sphygmomanometer to record the blood pressure and a chronograph to record the time in fifths of seconds or greater intervals, while the reaction time is further obtained by the use of a signal magnet.

Since deception plays such an important role on the witness stand and in criminal investigation it is imperative that the criminologist should become familiar with some of its manifestations and methods employed to study

WAR OFFICERS TO EDUCATE PUBLIC ABOUT DEFENSE

Here are two illustrations of the "lie detector" in use. In the top picture you see Dr. Larsen making an actual test on an alleged criminal. The lower photo shows the instrument attached to the arm of the man upon whom the test was made. Fortunately, the machine proved the absolute innocence of this man, whose name is withheld for obvious reasons.

It," said Dr. Larsen recently. The transition from the very sick, the cheerless individual to the cheerful person may be shown graphically by comparing the reaction of the same man before and after an injection of morphine or other drug. This transition may occur within a few seconds."

The "lie detector" is in use daily in the Berkeley Police Department. The consent of the subject is always obtained. In most cases it is given readily.

The innocent are glad of an opportunity of clearing themselves. The guilty fear refusal. Its use during the course of criminal investigation ascending the scale from the juvenile offender to the man charged with murder. Only recently it was the means of reuniting an estranged father and son, clearing the latter's name of forgery.

Dr. Larsen believes the day will come when the cardio-pneumo psychograms, as the calligraphic strips of tracings are known, will take their place as evidence in courts of justice. To his mind the important thing is that they form a permanent record open to the interpretation of all who study such matters. The record is there to be read by all who will.

Scientific criminologists the world over are interested in the device. Recently a noted criminologist from Copenhagen visited the laboratory of Dr. Larsen to see the machine and indicated that upon his return home he will put into use a similar device. He arranged with Dr. Larsen for the exchange of records so that the standardization of psychograms might be hastened. Outside police departments have called upon Dr. Larsen to make tests in important murder cases. It was demonstrated at a recent international convention of police chiefs and was the subject of much interested discussion.

Interesting records have been

WAR OFFICERS TO EDUCATE PUBLIC ABOUT DEFENSE

People Need Enlightenment On Menacing Dangers, Says Secretary Weeks

By HARRY L. ROGERS.
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—With the zero hour already set, the American army is preparing to go over the top.

"There has been no declaration of war by Congress, but the Harding administration has approved the campaign the war department has embarked upon, and Secretary Weeks is determined to 'carry on' till the enemy hoists the white flag of defeat.

Casualties there may be in this new war, but fatalities are unlikely, for the attackers will employ not rifles, nor machine guns, but publicity, not shrapnel nor high explosives, but facts.

The opening guns already have been fired. Analysis of recent addresses by Secretary Weeks, Assistant Secretary Wainwright, General Pershing and other administration officials closely identified with the military branches of the government, leave no doubt as to their conviction that grave dangers menace our institutions.

Their utterances indicate unmistakably they have seen the necessity of placing the problem of military preparedness frankly before the people in a new and more comprehensive light than ever before. It has been attempted in time of peace.

Unrest Threatens Government
In the unrest following the war Secretary Weeks and General Pershing see what they believe to be a danger not to the army alone, but to American governmental institutions generally, and Secretary Wainwright in his most recent public utterances is even more outspoken.

"In some ways these times are as critical for the future of our republic as those of 1917 and 1918," he declared, speaking for the administration. "We have our enemies, although they do not wear a distinctive uniform. They attack from within instead of without."

Innumerable "isms" have sprung up throughout the country since the great war, Wainwright believes, which have an objective the destruction of Americanism. "To which we owe all that we possess as a nation."

"Groups of peoples and classes are organizing for every kind of purpose except a patriotic and national one," he continued. "Insidious propaganda is being directed against all the fundamentals of our government. The most pernicious of all are those who are striving to substitute internationalism for nationalism. They would destroy from within what no enemy has ever been able to do from without—our ideals of government, constitution, liberties and leadership in the world."

Pacifists Declared Dangerous
The pacifists, who were silent during the war and missing from the ranks of our defenders, would destroy our instruments of defense—the army and navy—and reduce us a weakling among the nations without influence or prestige in the world's affairs. These internationalists, which have been working together and in most instances the same people—are even trying to induce our youths to forswear allegiance to our flag and refuse to defend it. If such are not enemies, then who is?"

These views are in effect those of Secretary Weeks, General Pershing, and, in fact, all those connected with the national defense branch of the administration. Feeling thus, these high officials have embarked upon a campaign of education in Americanism—that is, an explanation of American forms of government, the dangers which menace them, and the relation of the army and the navy to American institutions.

They believe the public does not realize the distinct place in American political economy, and are attempting a new type of national preparedness campaign designed to educate the public to such a realization.

The process of arousing public attention to these purely public questions is of necessity, Mr. Weeks believes, a long one and the year that will elapse before the issue of the army again becomes a current political issue will no more than suffice to lay the ground-work of understanding.

Weeks and his assistants make no secret of their feelings that drastic cuts in the army establishment by congress this year have seriously menaced the success of the military policy enacted by congress in 1920. They do not believe public sentiment demanded any such reduction as was ordered.

The average voter, Weeks holds, and even the average member of congress, cannot understand the highly technical questions involved in the peace-time organization of an army without special attention to the subject.

Robbers Loot Home

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—For being a social sleeper T. J. Stultz, a local grocer, takes the prize. In a room next to his store, No. 2118 South Parsons avenue, Stultz serenely slumbered while robbers broke the front window and stole from the grocery goods worth $200, together with $25 in cash.

In spite of the smashing of glass, which was scattered on the floor and floor of the storeroom, Stultz did not know of the robbery until a neighbor woke him up next morning.

Miss N. M. Black, general delivery clerk at the postoffice, saw a number of passengers who had been left on the Mojave desert, as they came into Los Angeles this morning. Those who were bound for other destinations were taken to the B. & M. cafeteria on Hill street, Los Angeles, for breakfast.

Already hundreds of tests have been made. These are being studied, catalogued and classified. Thousands of additional tests are to be made in the penal and insane institutions of the State. These will in turn be classified and studied. And when hundreds of thousands of records have been made Dr. Larsen believes the test will form an almost infallible index to the truthfulness of statements made by persons tested by the "lie detector."

Glendale, like the rest of the world, has its quota of fishermen who catch 'em and fishermen who nearly get 'em, but this city also boasts a woman among its followers of the line and rod.

Mrs. Harry E. McCartney, shown in the accompanying picture, is the fair Waltonite of Glendale whose fly-casting records in the mountain streams and lakes have become by words with devotees of the trout-playing pastimes. Mrs. McCartney has not boasted of her talent with the limber rod, but upon being questioned, her husband of Hayward & McCartney, naively admitted that "she's the best fisherman in these parts."

Trout Strike Fast.
 Mr. and Mrs. McCartney returned last week from a successful fishing trip at Camp Mammoth near Bishop. Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Barnett of Glendale and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of Los Angeles were members of the same party. The biggest catch of golden trout of which Mr. McCartney has found record was made by the party which spent three weeks trying out the fishing in Lakes Merry and George, Shadow Lake, other lakes and tributary streams in the neighborhood.

Throughout the trip, Mrs. McCartney proved not only to be an excellent "woodsman" but also a very lucky "fisherman." The immense trout which she was holding when the camera caught her are but samples of the long string she caught.

Mr. McCartney is as proud of the several score fine pictures he secured as he is of the excellent fishing luck experienced by the entire party.

Mrs. McCormick to Wed Swiss Gardener

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. — Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick will marry Edward Krenn, 28-year-old Swiss architect and landscape gardener, in Chicago in February, according to an authoritative source today closes to the councils involving both sides of the dividing home of the McCormicks.

Mr. Krenn came to the United States on the same boat as Mrs. McCormick and has been living at the Drake ever since.

Mr. Krenn has been associated with Mrs. McCormick's early associations with Dr. Jung's colony in Zurich, Switzerland, and their chance acquaintance ripened into the closer bond during the intervening years.

Brought Him to America
 When she came to this country Mrs. McCormick brought the young architect over and set him to work on plans for the extensive zoological gardens she has donated to Cook county and which are to be located in the forest preserve near this city.

Unlike her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, who married Ganna Walska, famous Polish opera singer, in Paris yesterday, Mrs. McCormick plans to continue a resident of this city and has set wedding date to conform to the state laws forbidding a marriage of divorced persons within a year after the signing of the separation decree.

Tariff Bill Action In 10 Days, Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14. — With President Harding holding the key to future tariff laws, senate leaders have organized their attacks to force a final vote upon the McCumber tariff bill within the next ten days.

The victory of the administration in forcing enactment by the senate of its proposal conferring on President Harding's far-reaching powers to increase or reduce tariff rates was looked upon today as insuring passage of the bill between next Saturday and August 26. Democratic opposition was expected to be merely routine from now until the end of the tariff fight.

'LAMB OF GOD' IS TOPIC FOR LESSON

First Public Designation of Savior, Says Rev. K. L. Brooks Before Class

"Jesus, the Lamb of God" was the topic of the lesson yesterday morning in the council room of the city hall by the Men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church.

"Lamb of God" is the first public designation of the Savior," declared Rev. Keith L. Brooks. "It throws the prominence on one aspect of His work, the truth which we all need most—Christ as our sin-bearer. The greatest emphasis of the New Testament is upon the efficacy of His sacrifice for the remission of sins, not upon His ethical teachings or His example."

"Some of our modernists, who have very refined tastes, would have us think that the title 'Lamb' simply has to do with Christ's meek and gentle ways as if it were a description of His disposition. But He was something far more than a meek man and a lovely pattern for human conduct—He was the atoning savior of the world, giving His life a ransom on Calvary's cross."

"We must permit God to say how we shall be saved. We are safe only when we have yielded obedience to God's terms. He has told us in His Word. We cannot dictate some other plan to Him."

"Many today are talking about following the example of Christ although they reject His atoning work upon the cross. It cannot be done. There is no power to live the life of Christ until one is born again of the Holy Spirit through receiving the atonement."

"Death has taken place at Calvary for all who will receive the finished work of Christ. But remember the blood has to be applied or it is of no effect. It is not enough that the blood of the Lamb of God was shed. His atoning work must be received by faith."

"The mark of the Christian life is to be evident to the world, easily discernible to all. There may be a back way to Hell but there is none to Heaven."

"The designation 'Lamb' to these Jews, who were right then on their way to the Passover, is highly instructive. The Paschal lamb had been appointed in Old Testament times as a means of deliverance from inevitable destruction pronounced upon the first-born of Egypt. The Lamb of God is our deliverance from a bondage more fearful than that of Egypt."

Speaker Reveals Meaning of Slogan 'Looking Beyond' to Graduates

looks to the future and there is a wide difference in points of view, but should we not take the viewpoint of Christian ideals.

"There are two things to consider in 'Looking Beyond.' First view the future as it affects your service and second consider the time of reward."

World Poor Paymaster.
 "The world will stand by the way to greet you and make offers to you but remember the world is a very poor paymaster. I want to point out to you Jesus, the great medical missionary, and say that it is necessary to have more than a profession to see the kingdom of God."

"Our professions should include ministry to humanity. The nurse's vocation is a very beautiful one and let us be careful not to take a profession and turn it into a professionalism that will take all the nobility out of it."

"Let us not neglect the need of the world, let us minister to it, but look beyond the rewards of the world."

Throughout his address Pastor McElhaney referred constantly to the Bible, introducing passages of scripture in illustration of his various statements.
